HONORS TO THE DEAD CHIEF.

CLEVELAND THRONGED WITH PEOPLE. SHENT CROWDS PASSING ALL DAY THROUGH MONU MENT SQUARE-THE HOSPITALITY SHOWN BY THE DAY'S EXERCISES-THE ORDER IN WHICH THE PROCESSION WILL MARCH TO THE CEMETERY-THE BODY TO BE PLACED TEMPORARILY IN

The catafalque in Monument Square was the centre, yesterday, toward which the crowds which gathered at Cleveland were drawn. All day long, in files five to six abreast, they continued to pass the coffin containing the body of President Garfield. The utmost prevailed and nothing was done detract from the impressiveness of the scene. The programme for today's ceremonies was made public and the arrangements for the procession to the grave were completed. Mrs. Garfield went to the cemetery and approved the selection of the site for the final resting place made by the trustees. She has decided to attend the ceremonies in the square to-day, and will accompany the procession to the cemetery. The body is to be placed temporarily in a receiving vault.

PAYING HONORS TO HIS MEMORY. AN ENDLESS THEONG PASSING THE CATAFALQUE IN MONUMENT SQUARE-PERFECT ORDER MAIN-TAINED-THE SCENE AT NIGHT. IBY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 25,-Noise, dust and confusion have strangled every suggestion of Sabba motives as successive trains brought in the people the streets with bands playing or drum corps beating, and the continual rush and pressure of the

The stir and noise began with early daylight and have been continuous. It is a good-natured mob, wonderfully putient when it has a definite purpose in view, but usually wandering purposely place to place, gossiping, pushing, and suffering everything in fact but mourning.

At 9 o'clock this morning the guards about the public square made an opening in their line upon the est side through which the multitude began to pour. They were kept in line four and five or six abreast, marching in families, squares, groups, and indiscriminately, but still keeping their ranks and sweeping steadily and rapidly ouward at the east and west sides of the catafalque. Inclined planes had been erected and carpeted so that the throngs marched easily up on the one side and down on the other. The pace was too rapid to make the visit a satisfactory one, for the exquisite floral adornments were tempting enough to furnish pleasure for a visit of an hour, but all had an opportunity to get one glance at the coffin which contained the remains of him they had

The line at the end of an hour had stretched its length to a distance of a square. By 10 o'clock mass of moving figures passing on, dividing as they reached the coffin, uniting beyond. None were suf fered to linger within the square. By 11 o'clock the line was a quarter of a mile in length. and by actual count 140 persons passed a given point every minute. At noon the length of the line decreased a little, but there were still several thousand marching past. In the afternoon they can in still greater numbers, and reinforcements of the military became necessary to keep the lines un-The rear extended to the viaduct, half a mile distant from the catafalque. Later in the afternoon a thunder and wind storm came up suddenly and some of the throng sought shelter. Others, however, filled their places, and still the multitude moved along.

The catafalque reached, every hat was raised, and with uncovered heads, often with tears in their eyes and half-suppressed sobs, they moved on. Late into the night they continued to come in unbroken ranks, the old and young, the pure and vile, the

FRIENDS AND COMRADES PASSING. A single interruption was noted, the occasion being the entrance of surviving members of the "42d," which President Garfield had commanded. These were followed by the students and officers of monial to the popularity, love and respect in which the late President was held by friends and neighbors. A "Hiram memorial service" had been held in the large church fronting upon the square, at which President Hinsdale presided, and in which a number of the Hiram graduates, old associates or pupils of General Garfield had taken part. The procession was formed as the assemblage emerged from church.

After this visit of affection the populace began once more its endless march. The floral decorations, the draped cannons, the pillars of gold and the statuseque forms of the guards of honor make a picture not to be forgotten. At night, electric lights, under the sombre roof of the structure, throw their rays upon the coffin and its beautiful surroundings, and make the scene a wonderfully impressive one.

CLEVELAND'S HOSPITALITY. BOTELS CROWDED WITH PEOPLE-PRIVATE HOUSES ENTERTAINING STRANGERS - MRS. GARFIELD VISITING THE CEMETERY-THE SITE OF THE GRAVE APPROVED BY HER. (BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.) CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 25 .- It is estimated that by midnight one hundred thousand persons will have passed by and looked upon the coffin. There was gentle rain early this morning, but the clouds soon cleared away, and for the greater part of the day the heat was too great for comfort. The thunder storm of this evening has cooled the air and laid the dust.

The wind has somewhat disarranged the drapery upon many private houses, but all can be easily re Stored, and will be by morning.

Two days ago the hotels were so full that guests who had not previously secured rooms were turned away. This gave the citizens an opportunity to make a reputation for hospitality such as rarely falls to the lot of a community, and they have improved it right royally. Every house a place of private entertainment, and the best that can be furnished seems none too good to offer to se who have come to do honor to Ohio's greatest son. The Board of Trade has given up its rooms for the use of the correspondents who come from a dis beremonials in connection with the obsequies to-day but every church has been crowded, and the burder of every sermon has been the virtues, the honors and the tragic end of James A. Gartield. Mrs. Garfield remained most of the day at he porary home receiving a few personal friend and friends of her husband who called to pay their respects. This morning she rode out to the cemetery to see the spot were the grave is to be and approved selection made by the trustees of cemetery. It has been decided to remains temporarily in vault, give time to construct the grave with nry and cement. Mrs. Garfield also rode to the square to inspect the place selected for the and friends at the ceremonics. Several ques-aving reference to arrangements for to-mor-premonics were submitted to her to-day. It with such matters, but her friends thought it would be a relief and occupy her mind.

Yesterday, it was thought that Mrs. Garfield, after a tending the ceremonies in the public square, would retire to her rooms and not undertake to go with the procession to the cemetery. She has, however, decided that, on this last occasion, she will be present at the ceremonies and accompany the body to the grave. The whole distance—about five miles—will be guarded by Ohio militia, while one regiment will be on duty at the square and one at the cemetery.

there was little diminution in the throngs that gathered near Monument Square. The east and west arches were surrounded by people who gazed ipon the ca lalque by the glare of the numeror ectric lights. Inside the pavilion there were on duty KnightsTemplar and a squad of the Cleveland Grays. At midnight only a few sentinels and workmen re named inside the guard line, though many person were yet on the streets outside. The scene was sin gularly impressive at this hour. The almost perfect silence, the bright glare of the lights, the ceasele novements of the sentinels, the sighing of the winthrough the trees, combined to create a feeling of awe in the breasts of the spectators. The massiv structures, reared so quickly in the large Square eemed the work of magic. OBSERVANCES IN THIS CITY TO-DAY. SINESS TO BE SUSPENDED EVERYWHERE-SER VICES IN THE CHURCHES-A MONDAY WITH THE QUIET OF SUNDAY LOOKED FOR.

The city will obey to-day the proclamation

esident Arthur by fitting observances to the memry of the dead President, and a visitor here will chold a scene that has not been witnessed since the leath of President Lincoln. Late Saturday night the work of draping public and private houses was entinued, and in all parts of the city, among rich and poor, the mournful colors are now dislayed. The suspension of business will be as uni versal to-day as it was yesterday. In nearly every office and store could be seen on Saturday a little placard, surrounded by deep mourning lines, bearing the words; "This store will be closed on Monday, the day of the President's fune ral." Many places which are usually open on Sundays, such as cigar stores, had the sam notice posted. The exchanges, banks, courts and public offices will remain closed. Entertainments and amusements of various kinds advertised to take place to-day and this evening have been postponed antil a time when the public is in a frame of mind to be amused. At a meeting of theatrical managers it was decided to close the theatres this evening. and with few exceptions the direction will be of served. By order of Mayor Grace all church and fire bells will be tolled at 2 p. m. for a period of half an hour to remind citizens that at that time the President is to be conveyed to his last resting

The city will assume the aspect of Sunday rather than that of a holiday. There will be no attractions of any kind to invite the attendance of the idle community except such as are offered in the churches. Arrangements have been made for observing the day with great solemnity in churches of all denominations. Every church will throw open its doors, so that citizens of all classes and creed can seek consolation in prayer. From all the pul-pits will be preached special sermons on the Na-tional calamity. Emblems of mourning are displayed on the exterior of all the churches, and in many of them to-day the interior will be drape with the same sombre colors. In the Protestan Episcopal churches special funeral services will be held at 2 p. m., according to the order sent forth by the Bishop of the diocese. Among

LESSONS FOR THE NATION.

THE DEAD PRESIDENT FOR A TEXT. WHAT THE PREACHERS SAY OF THE NATIONAL

BEREAVEMENT-SERMONS BY HENRY WARD BEECHER, THE REV. DRS. BELLOWS, TAYLOR, VINCENT, DIX, THE REV. ROBERT COLLYER AND OTHERS. In nearly all the churches, yesterday, in this city and Brooklyn the life and death of President Garfield furnished the text of the sermons. Words of omfort, sympathy, hope and warning were uttered, end the lesson which the sorrowing Nation has to learn from the painful event was set forth. The prayers the bereaved family was remembered. The lay was beautiful and the congregations were large.

WHAT THE PEOPLE MUST LEARN.

There were three or four hundred persons n front of Plymouth Clurch yesterday morning before 10 o'clock, and when the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher asconded the pulpit three-quarters of an hour later there was not a scat to be had in the church. All the aisles were filled, and the crowd extended out into the e heard, while three or four hundred went away when like crape, extending around the building, were atthe future he should be able to begin preaching on Sep-tember 15 instead of October 1. His text was Psalms iii., 15-17, and eil., 24-27.

How short, said Mr. Beecher, is many knowledge ongest. We spend years in gathering knowledge to use it. and die just as we get ready to use it. We learn how to live only to pass on. Yet we are not and to-day we stand before a strange manifestation of Providence. Why is it that the good man dies, pinced our faith has passed away? We had gone through the war victoriously, and had lived through

The Park Department will close its office, as will all the other departments of the city government. Although the parks will be epen to the public, some of the buildings will be closed as on Sanday.

The members of the Fire Department will observe the day by tolling all the bells under their supervision from 2 to 2:30 p. m. The firemen will be on duty as musual in case of a fire.

At Police Headquarters there will be little work beyond the usual routine business of the Department which demands attention on Sundays and holidays. All the force will be on duty in case of an emergency, as extra vigilance will have to be displayed to guard against burglaries while people are engaged in services of mourning. guard against burglaris while people are engaged in services of mourning.

There will be a more general observance of today as a holiday among down-town merchants than is usual. There will be no closed doors of mercantile houses with the clerks inside posting the books. It is safe to say that every business place down-town will remain as it was closed on Saturday night until to-morrow morning. There will be an absolute suspension of business, and the laying aside of business cares will be general. The Produce, Cotton, Petroleum and Sugar Exchanges will not only be closed to the regular business, but no member or clerk will be permitted to pass inside of the doorways. The Maritime Exchange will also be closed to its members, and with the exception of the telegraph operators and the clerks to receive and record shipping news for to morrow's information no one will be permitted benefit may arise to us from this disaster. Sometimes a single act may outwelgh the rost of a man's life. So from Garfield's death we may gain something, although not in an exactly similar way. Washington is revered for his life, but how much more elevated his memory would have been if he had met with a tragic death for his country. Wise and gen is as our saviour's life was, His death was of much more importance. Although we hoped to reap so much from tiarfield's life, we may reap even more from his death. The North and South have feel for the first time the healing balm of mutual sympathy and grief. The wounds left by the war, and not yet healed over, will be mollified. There has been no division in the Nation's sorrow, and its whole heart has beaten together. Charleston has felt the loss as bitterly as Falladeuphia, and New Orleans has been as sincere in her grief as New-York. Nor have party lines divided this sympathy.

But still more striking than the unity of the Nation in its grief has been the unity of mankind. When Lincoln was shot, the world was shocked rather than grieved. England had not yet learned wisdom, while the hands of France were still red with the blood of Mexico. But now no attom has been so obscure that it has not expressed its sorrow. From Russia and Turkey on the East to Japan on the West, there has been a common serrow. I think that never before has the heart-blood of the world been so stirred. But if this is the first time, may it not be the last!

This sympathy had also a moral comfort. Were there ever before so many prayers offered up? The Mussulman, the Catholic, the Protestant, all prayed to God as they knew Him. and in their own formality. But did God refuse to answer them, and is prayer a fiction? In the lower sphere God give no answer; but in the higher one He did. Is there no other answer of prayer save in continuance of life? Could we not be more fortified and strengthened by President Garfield's death, and there is one which I wish particularly ambitious young men should grow clerks to receive and record shipping news for to apon the door.

In the simplicity of our babits, there has been no need of protection around our Presidents. And it is still true that public opinion, with us, is better than the guard of any European monarch. There is no sense here of wrongs inflicted upon generation after generation to chal public oddition, with its, is better than the guard of any European monarch. There is no sense here of wrongs indicted upon generation after generation to stir men up to madness against their rulers. Our laws are of our own making and can be changed. Then only a short time must pass before we are freed from the most hateful ruler. Yet our legislation is incomplete. I would not have a guard if I were the President, for I would not have a guard if I were the President, for I sad rather take the builet than be protected from my fellow-chirens. But an attempt on the life of a man whom we have elected as our leader, and upon whom we all rely, should be treason, and its punishment should be death. (Applause, I But let this be done by law. No man has any more right to assassinate Guiteau than he had to assassinate President Garleid. Let us stand for the administration of justice. When the Rebellion ceased neither bullet, sword nor halter slew one man, and the moderation of our people impressed the whole world. And if Guiteau should die unlawfully there would be a spot upon our escutcheon. I have been angry with the miscreaut, but I have obeyed the command of the Lord not to let the sun go down on my anger. Indignation has had its day; now let law have its day. I have a right to speak thus of Guiteau. He once was with us, but not of us. He sat in this sanctuary among the worshippers. Hooser Burns expressed a faint hope in one of his poems that the devil might yet be turned around the corneg and be saved. Let us hope that Guiteau's life will not be ended suddenly by that wanton sentiment into which you have blown a breath.

But what shall we say of that sorrowful group, Garland of the wife, who has shared her husband's elevation Love needs the presence of the loved one, and chastned though she is, there is no one that needs our prayers nore than she. May the blessing of God, enriched by the tears of a whole people, rest upon his chirdren, and may his sons follow in his footsteps.
